
Carestream Digital X-ray System Receives Top Award

Carestream Health has again earned a top rating from medical professionals using a Carestream digital X-ray system as reported by KLAS, an independent research organisation that monitors healthcare vendor performance.

The just released “2013 Best in KLAS Awards: Medical Equipment & Infrastructure” report cites the CARESTREAM DRX-Evolution as receiving the highest overall score against seven competitors in the digital X-ray category, with 100% of users stating they would buy Carestream’s system again. The report is compiled from the feedback of thousands of healthcare providers throughout the United States and Canada.

KLAS offers ratings on more than 250 healthcare technology vendors and over 900 products and services. The company’s reports represent the combined opinions of actual people from provider organisations comparing how vendors, products, and/or services performed when measured against the participant’s objectives and expectations.

“Healthcare providers using our digital X-ray systems have again expressed their high level of satisfaction with the many benefits our products deliver, including exceptional image quality and rapid access to images and information,” said Diana L. Nole, President, Digital Medical Solutions, Carestream.
