The 28th Congress of the European Association for Hospital Managers (EAHM 2019) starting today in the Belgian city of Ghent, aims to explore six major strategies making waves in healthcare and their impact on hospital managers in Europe and around the world.

Shining a spotlight on innovation in particular, delegates can look forward to discussions on Big Data & Digital Health; Finance & Health Economics; Smart Buildings & Logistics; Health Management, Governance & Ethics; Innovation & Technology; and Healing Architecture.

EAHM 2019 focuses on putting these ideas into practice by taking a different approach to the programme agenda this year. As the main talks and discussions of the congress will be taking place at different hospitals around Belgium, delegates will be able to see how these main themes have been successfully implemented in real-life cases. Including:

- AZ Groeninge Kortrijk
- Delta CHIREC Brussels
- AZ Delta Roeselare
- UZA Antwerp
- AZ Maria Middelares
- AZ Zeno Knokke

The congress offers a unique experience to its attendees hoping to initiate discussions on innovation in healthcare. As EAHM Congress Chairman, Danny Havenith explains, “it is about exchanging experiences and developing visions among the participants.”

As well as discussions from top experts, participants of EAHM 2019 can explore the hospitals through guided tours, attend workshops and also have the opportunity to connect with other participants at ‘Networking Moments’ throughout the congress.

With a packed programme, we can expect EAHM 2019 to deliver innovative and thought-provoking discussions with examples of real-life cases. Taking place from September 11th to 14th, HealthManagement.org will be present to report during the event.
