
TeraRecon Appoints Jeff Sorenson as President

TeraRecon, (www.terarecon.com), a leader in advanced visualization and enterprise medical image viewing solutions, today announced leadership changes designed to strengthen the company and position it for the next phases of growth and solution development.

Venkatraman Lakshminarayan, who served as CFO since 2005 and CEO since 2014, has stepped down to pursue other interests. He is succeeded by Jeff Sorenson, who will lead the company as president. Sorenson joined the company in 2004 and was most recently SVP of sales and marketing.

"TeraRecon is unique because it offers a complete and truly vendor-neutral 3D advanced visualization suite which can be extended to serve the medical image viewing needs of the entire health enterprise", Sorenson stated. He continued, "I am excited to serve our valued customers and to drive innovation in this new capacity as president."

On the heels of three large enterprise iNtuition™ advanced visualization wins in early August alone, the company also reported a marked increase in iNteract+™ interoperability and enterprise image-enablement projects. In addition, the anticipation of the feature-rich iNtuition software release is driving an increase in software maintenance renewals.
