

---

Test for Heart Transplant Patients Approved

---

AlloMap measures genetic information contained in the white blood cells (cells of the immune system that defend the body against invading viruses, bacteria or other foreign material) from a patient's blood sample.

Specifically the test measures gene expression

Published on : Thu, 28 Aug 2008