
Women May Be More Likely To Experience Emergency Medical Services Delays For Heart Care

The data did not reveal why women were more likely to be delayed. However, other research suggests that heart conditions in women may not be recognized as readily and response may be slower as a result.

Published on : Mon, 19 Jan 2009